

From the Archives

For further information about these images, or to know more about the Institute's archival holdings, contact Ian Carroll (Collections Manager): i.carroll@ucl.ac.uk.

The Institute's skull collection under study in its basement store in the 1960s.

Gordon Childe in 1956, with Joan Sheldon (left) and Silvia Mann (an Institute student), during a visit to the excavation by Richard Atkinson and Stuart Piggott of the Neolithic 'long barrow' at West Kennett, Wiltshire.

Joan du Plat Taylor was Librarian of the Institute of Archaeology from 1945 until her retirement in 1970.

The Institute of Archaeology library at St John's Lodge, Regent's Park, in the 1950s.

The conservation laboratory on the top floor of the Institute's new building in Gordon Square completed in 1957.

How to cite this article: Anonymous, 2013 From the Archives. Archaeology International, No. 16 (2012-2013): 148-150, DOI: <http://dx.doi.org/10.5334/ai.1619>

Published: 24 October 2013

Copyright: © 2013 The Author(s). This is an open-access article distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution 3.0 Unported License (CC-BY 3.0), which permits unrestricted use, distribution, and reproduction in any medium, provided the original author and source are credited. See <http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/3.0/>.